

"We learn that the Oil Company, boring on the lands of Mr. Bottoms, in the west end of this county, near Perryville, "played out" a few days ago. Several months have elapsed since they began operations, and in that time, debts to an unlimited extent, have accumulated, which they were unable to pay in consequence of the dryness of the "diggins." Last week the workmen pulled up stakes between two days, and started for Lebanon, but were overhauled before they had reached the railroad, and an attachment placed on what little property they had.

Agricultural Department.

Kentucky State Agricultural Society.

Resolved, That the Board approve of the establishment of the paper at Louisville called the "INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL GAZETTE," and recommend it to the patronage of the agriculturists and mechanics of the State.

(Signed) L. J. BRADFORD, President.
Jas. G. MILLER, Secretary.

Kentucky Pomological and Horticultural Society.

By resolution, adopted at a late meeting of the Directors, the "INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL GAZETTE" was adopted as the official organ of this Society.

STATE FAIR AT PARIS.—The State Agricultural Society determined, last week, to hold their next Fair at Paris, the first week in October. It is thought it may be merely a stock fair.

The 29th annual fair of the Bourbon Society will be held the first week in September.

The American Pomological Society.

We ask the reader's careful attention to the circular of this important national organization, to be found in another column. Read it, ponder well its purposes, and act promptly and energetically in furthering, to the utmost of your ability, the avowed objects of the association.

The West and South has played "second fiddle" too long in this matter of Pomology, as well as in many other things. Let us see to it, that this reproach attaches to us no longer. As a fruit growing country we can excel all creation beside, if we only bring the same appliances of labor perseverance and common sense to bear upon the occupations that our less favored brethren of the North and Europe do. This we are prepared to prove. That we are ignored then, in the eyes of the great fruit growing world, is wholly our own fault.

The Southern Rural illustrates this position by a fact or two. The Am. Pom. Soc. was organized about 1849, and since then, up to the breaking out of the late war, we have had just as many State Fruit Committees and other official dignitaries, acting under orders from the national organization, as the North has had, i. e., one "set" to each State, and yet during the whole of that period only one "Report" proper had ever been sent up from the South.

This fact is a disgrace to our energy, and intelligence. Let us turn over a new leaf in our book of progress, and hereafter on our lesson so effectually as to maintain our position somewhere up about the head of the class.

PROPAGATING BY CUTTINGS.—Propagating by cuttings is not nearly so well understood by people generally, as it should be. We may say by gardeners generally. Nearly all soft wood will grow from cuttings, in the hand of a careful person. It is a common way to multiply grapes, currants, gooseberries, &c.; but few persons, unacquainted with horticulture will attempt the same thing with flowering shrubs, which are usually "laid down," with which there is not the least difficulty, though with some the success is not so uniform as others. All the Arbor Vitae can be propagated by inserting the branches of last year's wood four or five inches, without removing the leaves. Prepare the bed, dig deeply, pulverize the soil well, and put it in good order. To be sure of the cutting growing, it should be inserted five or six inches in depth, and placed from four to six inches apart, the earth being placed firmly around them. They should be mulched, and watered moderately daily in warm weather when the ground is dry. They can be either potted in the fall, or let remain over winter, slightly protected with a little straw or long manure. Amateurs should plant grape cuttings with two eyes, the upper eye being placed a little below the surface of the ground.

TRICHINÆ.—Dr. Reed, of Baltimore, says the eating of pork has nothing whatever to do with the disease known as trichinæ. "They do not inhabit the muscle of the hog more than that of any other animal, or man himself. I defy any one to prove by the record of the last thirty-five years that a solitary death has been caused beyond doubt by the presence of trichinæ. I assert that the charges made against these innocent worms are without shadow of a foundation in fact, and would advise the community, if they desire to eat pork, to do so."

BOURBON MONTHLY STOCK SALE.—There was a large crowd in attendance on Monday, and the auctioneers appeared to be doing a good business. There were but few mules offered, and they of an indifferent quality. Yearlings sold at $100. There was considerable inquiry for sucklings—prices ruling high, and ranging from $60 to $100 for the first class.

There was more cattle offered than has been for several sale days—prices were well sustained. Aged stock cattle sold at $55 75—two year olds at $75—yearlings $38 20.

Gen. Gano sold 76 head of the longest horned cattle we ever saw (direct from Texas) at $38.—[Paris Kentuckian.]

WHAT is the difference between accepted and rejected lovers? The accepted kisses the misses, and the rejected kisses the kisses.

Meeting the State Agricultural Society.

The Board of Directors of the State Agricultural Society, in obedience to the call of the President, met in the rooms of the Board of Trade, in the city of Louisville, on the 31st of May, 1896.

Present—Colonel L. J. Bradford, of Breckinridge county, President; Alfred Allen, of Breckinridge, James Hall, of Bourbon, J. B. Campbell, of Christian, W. Warfield, of Fayette, J. B. O'Bannon and Lawrence Young, of Jefferson, Directors.

The special object of this meeting was to take into consideration the propriety of holding the annual fair during the coming fall, and to receive proposals from the various local fairs, in order that the Board could determine on a location most advantageous to the interests of the Society and the public.

On motion of Mr. Allen, it was resolved that the State Agricultural Society hold a fair during the coming fall, the time and place to be hereafter determined.

Various proposals from county agricultural associations were received and considered; after which it was resolved that the Board accept the proposals from the Bourbon County Association, and hold the annual State Fair on its grounds, commencing on Tuesday, the 21st of October next, and continue to the 5th of same month, inclusive.

It was resolved that L. J. Bradford, Alfred Allen, James Hall, J. B. O'Bannon, R. W. Scott and Wm. Warfield, be appointed as an Executive Committee.

It was resolved that the Board deem it expedient to confine the exhibition alone to stock at the coming fair.

It was resolved that the President appoint a committee whose duty it shall be to prepare and publish a list of premiums.

P. Swigert, W. Warfield, Jas. Hall and R. W. Scott, were appointed said committee.

On motion it was resolved that W. Warfield and P. Swigert be appointed a committee to invite his Excellency Thomas E. Bramlette, to deliver an address before the State Agricultural Society, on the Fair Grounds of the Bourbon County Association, on the 21st of October next, (being the first day of the fair) on the importance of the agricultural and mechanical interests of the State, &c., and also to invite R. B. Bowman, Esq., Regent of the Kentucky University, to deliver an address on the same day, and at the same place, on the benefits and advantages to be derived from a thorough agricultural education, as well as his views of the plans and purposes of the Agricultural College about to be established at Ashland, under the authority of the Kentucky University.

It was resolved that the Treasurer be directed to collect all the money due to the State Society without delay.

It was resolved that the Secretary be requested to ask of the Governor of the State that a suitable room be furnished the State Society for depositing its minerals, soils, library, &c.

There being no further business, the Board adjourned.

L. J. BRADFORD, Pres't.
JAMES J. MILLER, Sec'y.

CIRCULAR
Of the American Pomological Society.

In conformity with a resolution adopted at the last meeting of this National Association, the undersigned give notice that its ELEVENTH SESSION will commence in the city of St. Louis, Mo., on TUESDAY, September 4th, 1896, at 11 o'clock A. M., at Mercantile Library Hall, and will continue several days. All Horticultural, Pomological, Agricultural and other kindred institutions in the United States and British Provinces, are invited to send Delegations, as large as they may deem expedient; and all other persons interested in the culture of fruits are invited to be present and take seats in the Convention.

And now that the rainbow of peace has again spanned the arch of our Union—now that our Southern brethren, after a painful separation of years, are again to be united with us in full fellowship and communion—now that our meeting is to be held for the first time on the "Father of Waters," in the Great West,—we invite all the States and Territories to be present by Delegation, that the amicable and social relations which have heretofore existed between the members of the Society, may be fostered and perpetuated, and the result of its deliberations, so beneficial to the country at large, be generally and widely diffused.

Among the prominent subjects which will come before the Society at this session, will be that of the revision of the Society's Catalogue of Fruits. The Special Committee appointed for this purpose are now, with the various State and Local Committees, actively engaged in collecting such information as will aid in determining what varieties are best adapted to the different sections and districts of our country, and this information, in the form of reports, will be submitted to the action of the Convention. In compliance with a resolution passed at the last session of the Society, the several State Pomological and Horticultural Associations are requested to compile lists for their own States or Districts, and forward them at as early a day as possible, to P. Barry, of Rochester, N. Y., Chairman of the Committee on the Revision of the Catalogue.

Members and Delegates are requested to contribute specimens of the Fruits of their respective districts, and to communicate in regard to them whatever may aid in promoting the objects of the Society and the science of American Pomology.

Each contributor is requested to come prepared with a complete list of his collection, and to present the same with his fruits, that a report of all the varieties entered may be submitted to the meeting as soon as practicable.

All persons desirous of becoming members can remit the remission fee to THOMAS P. JAMES, Esq., Treasurer, Philadelphia, who will furnish them with Transactions of the society. Life membership, Ten Dollars; Biennial, Two Dollars.

Packages of Fruits with the name of the contributor, may be addressed as follows: "AMERICAN POMOLOGICAL SOCIETY," care of C. M. SAXTON, Corner Fifth and Walnut Sts. St. Louis, Mo.

Have You a Daughter?
 [Written for the Gazette.]
 What then is your duty? To soften and subdue that buoyant heart; to elevate and inspire with holy ardor, that young immortal spirit; to instill into the mind lessons of wisdom, that shall cheer or guide the outpourings of affection; to weave around that lovely form a graceful garment of winning ways, of tenderness and love; to fit, in fine, that youthful being to pass through the world, always loved, yet never vain, firm as the rock, but as gentle as the flower—this to the parent is duty both imperative and delightful.
 Vanity—self-conceit—the developments of conscious beauty, intelligence or wealth—vanity is doubtless the greatest curse and the greatest folly of woman.
 Written on every parent's memory, influencing every word and every act, should be this rule—never excite a girl to vanity or self-conceit. There is no rule of greater importance or more frequently broken than this. The flatterer who presents before the artless girl a false mirror in which she is made to see her own character drawn in all the bright colorings of bewitching loveliness—who would lead the young worshiper to her own shrine, to behold herself worshipped as the embodiment of beauty—that man would be suspected and shunned as a villain.
 How strange it is that the fond and doating parent displays the very same character against which he warns his child! That he should fan to a flame the natural vanity of his child, until she feels that she is the most beautiful and talented being on earth, and then warn her against flattery, and charge her never to be vain.
 "Mary repeat your verses to Mr. S.," says the proud parent, while the little Miss with glowing glances repeats what she does not understand. The parent looks at once for the praises of the visitor. Flattery follows as a matter of course—falsehood tells, in the presence of the child, of the astonishing developments of her brilliant mind, till inflated with vanity, the spoiled one steps forth as lofty and disgusting as she is old.

Trust in the Heart that Loves Thee.
 [Written for the Gazette.]
 BY WALLACE GRUELLE.
 Oh! trust in the heart that loves thee,
 And let slanderous tongues assail,
 For thy love is its mightiest weapon,
 And thy heart is its coat of mail!
 This life is a ceaseless battle,
 A war between Right and Wrong;
 And the race belongs not to the swift,
 Nor is victory the prize of the strong,
 Dear Heart!
 Nor is victory the prize of the strong!
 But success belongs to the faithful,
 And is born of confiding trust—
 Belongs to the heart that loves thee,
 In the crown of the good and just:
 As a seed that is planted in season,
 Gains its life from the fruitful rain,
 So our hearts of happiness, dear Heart,
 Are watered with the tears of pain,
 Dear Heart,
 Blossom best beneath the tears of pain!
 Thy love is a cloud and a pillar,
 That guides me by night and by day,
 Guides me to the mountain of refuge,
 Guides me from myself away!
 Like a bow in the sky of the future,
 For thee I will ever prove faithful,
 For thy promise of Hope and Peace,
 When I have passed the dark storm of the present,
 When slanders of a false tongue must cease,
 Dear Heart,
 When the tongue of slander must cease!
 My love is a sweet adoration,
 A devoted heart at thy feet,
 And bring thee my heart's purest offering,
 My all that is holy and sweet!
 To thee I will ever prove faithful,
 For thy love shall be my true life,
 Fame, fortune, ambition may woo me,
 But vainly, indeed, will they sue,
 Dear Heart,
 All in vain, all in vain will they sue.

Something About Society and Women.
 [Written for the Gazette.]
 "It is not true of some people that a humbleness and affability find their counterparts and neighbors—that candor is opposed to hauteur—that candor on one part is met correspondingly on the other; while shyness and circumspection are sure to arouse suspicion and reluctance," for there are some people that must either tax your time and patience with their presence, and follow at your heels when they are not wanted, or be repelled by a blow. They can appreciate nothing short of a blow. They have not sufficient delicacy to understand by the manners of a person that their company is not acceptable. Duplicity and untruth-fulness are so entirely the governing principles of most society that candor and truthfulness cannot be appreciated.
 Motives are misconstrued or mis-judged, words falsely reported, actions misrepresented, or misconstrued. There is very little genuine politeness. Those apparently most affable and polite are generally the most devoid of society.
 While they are ready to bow and smile at everybody, (to gain popularity for themselves), they are the most ready to sneer at "mechanics" and "old maids," and make similar demonstrations of vulgarity, when with those they think can be prejudiced by their slurs against any class or individuals they designate. Most one, (because she is a woman,) is paid poorly for her time and exertions in earning a livelihood, and therefore has but little time to call her own, be bored by the frequent and long calls of one who has comparatively nothing to do? Must she, because not willing to give her time to his entertainment nor "receive him as a lover," be persecuted by a base, bitter, vindictive use of his pen, in his "determination to play the villain?" Where are the charity and love of which he so prettily writes? Alas! that malice can engross the heart of one whose brain is so gifted!
 Where are the fine sensibilities that a meek sentimentality would appropriate as its own? Who is the most unkind critic? Is it not one who in a frank, unvarnished manner, tells you of your faults, and never mentions them to others, or is it one who, in the most agreeable and polite manner treats you as if you were faultless, but scarcely leaves your presence until he or she sneers at and ridicules you, or vents his or her spleen in newspaper effusions?
 Who is the most of a gentleman or lady, and the most of a Christian?

Mineral Wealth of Wolfe and Owsley Counties.
 We have lately seen some specimens of iron and lead ore and lithograph stone, discovered by Dr. De S. Morimer in Wolfe and Owsley counties, about twenty-five or thirty miles from this place.
 The iron and lead ores are the richest specimens we have ever seen, and exist in large quantities. The lithographic stone the Doctor pronounces superior to that imported from the old world, and to be the only quarry yet found in the United States. He exhibited to us several pieces which he had polished, and in smoothness they exceeded the finest rapor bones. The quarry, he says, is inexhaustible—extends for ten miles, and can be easily worked. The various purposes to which the rock can be applied, render it of untold value. He also showed us samples of cannon coal found in the same counties, which is the best we have ever seen.
 The Doctor is a man of fine scientific attainments, and has spent more than a year in exploring the mineral wealth of the tier of counties above us. He declares that he has seen no region that is so exhaustless in minerals, and that furnish such profitable fields for investment.
 Nothing is needed but a road to these districts. A railroad can be made with a grade of less than thirty feet to the mile which will pass right through these coal, iron and lead regions, and which will make this part of Kentucky rich and prosperous. The Doctor assures us that the one item of lithograph rock will pay for the construction of the road.
 If the citizens of Kentucky have not the money and enterprise to build a road through this country, we trust that the people of Cincinnati will take the matter in hand.—[Mt. Sterling Sentinel.] The exhibition of beautiful stock this year at the Fair Grounds exceeds that of previous years, and those who have been present cannot but observe the fact. We are pleased to note this indication of the increased enterprise and liberality of the Association.

Antagonism between the Federal and State Governments.
 There is an antagonism between the Federal and State Governments, which seems to have had its origin far back in our history as a nation, and is almost coeval with the formation of the Union; party on the one hand, contending for Federal centralization, and another on the other hand, for what is termed the States Rights doctrine, or State sovereignty. Both have gone to extremes; and here, as generally in all extremes, truth lies in the middle ground. A federal government which would centre all political power in itself, and place it in the hands of one man, or in the hands of a self-constituted oligarchy of a few men at Washington city the capital of the nation, ignoring all the rights and privileges of the several States, would soon end in a political despotism, and eventually be destructive of the constitution, our republican form of government, and the Union itself. And this is precisely what the radical faction, or Jacobinismo, in Congress, seem now to be laboring for, and what is now to be most dreaded. On the other hand a government which would place all political power in the hands of the States, to the exclusion of all Federal power, and ignoring that, would be equally destructive. But of this there is no danger now, as that all the advocates of States rights want, all they claim, is the rights and privileges according to the States by the constitution of the United States. They ask for no more, and will never be satisfied with any less.
 A proper understanding of the relations between the Federal and State governments as laid down and defined in that great instrument, the constitution of the United States, the magna charta of our liberties, would, if permitted to have its influence on the minds of those who control public sentiment and make our laws, soon put an end to this unhappy and dangerous antagonism of which we are speaking, and settle the matter in the minds of all conversant with that instrument—who, we regret to say, are comparatively very few of the great mass of the American people.
 This is not as it should be; and for many years we have been in favor of incorporating the study of the constitution into all our systems of common school, academic, and collegiate education, for boys and young men. Such a course could not fail having a most salutary effect, as the people who are the source of government and hold the reins of political power in their own hands, would then be able to judge of infractions of the constitution and of the powers conferred by it on both the Federal and State governments.

Promise—Progress—The End.
 Every work in creation is accompanied with a promise. This is evidenced by the laws of growth and progression.
 The tiny seed promises a glorious tree, and the blossom promises fruit. Each varying stage of life, from infancy upward, is coupled with its promise or prophecy of something beyond—something to be hoped for or enjoyed. In all creation there is a continuity of existence. There are no stand-stills in nature. There is always either advancement or degeneration, whether in mental material or moral existence. The mind of man never rests, but is always in a state of activity in reference to something. Even in sleep, when the body is entirely quiescent and unconscious, the mind is active in dreams.
 Progress is the great law; and hence the mind is ever reaching forward in pursuit of some improvement that may be made —some contemplated good to be attained. Hope is the great propelling principle that is ever urging it on. Hence some poet says very justly:
 "Man never is, but always to be blessed." But though we can never realize our hopes here, there will be an end at last.
 All things are destined to come to an end. We must remember that all things will pass away. "Passing away" is written on everything of a sublimity character—all will pass away. So with the selfish aims of life—they will come to an end. But beyond these there are glorious ends, in the far distant future, beyond this life, and to them we should ever look.

A Sonnet.
 [Written by the light of the midnight moon, on the banks of the Mississippi, Aug. 15th, 1862.]
 She sang for me. Bring back, O memory!
 The soothing dream of voice so sweet, again!
 Blot out again the pleasures "hath been,"
 And fill mine ear with songs she sang for me.
 Broad Mississippi flows between The Present and the Past. Not brightest star
 Can show, where yonder moonbeams lightly play, Anght that lies hid beneath its sparkling sheen.
 Yet tis not Letho, List, the distant roar
 Of muffled thunder, music to the brave; 'Gaiest orient sky, dim, smoke-reared demons, see;
 A phantom lights, that flit the further shore,
 Lo! mocking spirit, o'er the mediate wave,
 Comes memory of my call—"who sang for me!"

THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY WEEKLY IN LOUISVILLE.

LOUISVILLE, KY:

SATURDAY, — — — JUNE 9, 1866.

We trust no one will neglect to read the Memorial to Congress in regard to the Mississippi Levees, which will be found in another column.

Col. C. J. Field, of Bolivar county, Mississippi, who signs the Memorial as President of the Board of Levee Commissioners, is a gentleman of the highest character and the most scrupulous integrity; these qualities combined with strong practical good sense and an untiring energy, have induced the planters in his region of country to select him to carry forward this important work, and it is to be hoped his efforts will be crowned with success.

As stated in the Memorial, the rebuilding of the Mississippi levees, is really a national work, dictated not only by the cause of humanity and progress, but even by every motive of self-interest upon the part of the Federal Government. The river bottom lands, now a perfect waste of waters uninhabitable and uncultivable on account of annual freshets, will as soon as protected by new levees, be able to produce annually 300,000 bales of cotton, the United States revenue tax upon which will be sufficient to repay in less than two years the whole cost of the levees.

The Board of Levee Commissioners, of which Col. Field is President, is authorized by special act of the Legislature of Mississippi, lately passed, to issue bonds to the amount of one million of dollars, to secure the immediate protection of the rich cotton plantations located in the counties of Issaquena, Bolivar and Washington, many of which plantations are owned by Kentuckians, and are the most fertile of all the cotton region east of the Mississippi river. The bonds are made payable in ten years, and bear interest at the rate of ten per cent. payable annually. The principal and interest are secured by a levee tax, approved by the courts and the people, of ten cents per annum on 1,500,000 acres of land within those counties, and of one cent per pound on the annual crops of cotton grown therein. The enforced collection of these taxes is secured by liens and other stringent provisions. The counties that have thus assumed these obligations produced before the war 135,000 bales of cotton annually. The present year it is estimated the crop will be fully 50,000 bales.

For the payment of the principal and interest of the million of dollars of bonds at ten per cent. per annum, the resources of the Levee Commissioners will be—
Annual tax on 1,500,000 acres land at ten cents $150,000 00
One cent per pound on 50,000 bales cotton, $4 per bale, $200,000 00

Total annual income, $350 000 00
Aggregate income in ten years, $3,500,000 00

No safer or better paying investment could be made than the purchase of these bonds; but it is a positive certainty that as soon as the lands are thoroughly protected by the proposed new levees, the annual cotton crop will be not less than 150,000 bales instead of only 50,000; the resources of the Levee Commissioners will consequently be increased proportionately and will be with the land tax, not less than $750,000 per annum.

These rich and productive lands are now concentrating in their cultivation the most efficient laboring population in the South, and the rebuilding of these levees is now only needed to bring the greater portion of them into cultivation in 1867.

We understand that Col. Field is too active and energetic a man to await the slow action of Congress, and that while hoping for aid in that quarter, he is making arrangements for the negotiation of the bonds, so as to have the levees in the three counties named, completed before next spring's overflow, and thus secure a good crop next season.

Col. Field is a native of Kentucky, and has been engaged for the past thirty years nearly, in cotton planting in Bolivar county, Mississippi. He has ever been successful in every undertaking, and has not only amassed a large fortune for himself, but has advantageously and profitably managed several large estates entrusted to his care to the entire satisfaction of the owners.

In the present enterprise, we wish his usual good success may attend him.

MISSING THE BARGAINS.—All who do not go to W. F. Osborne's, on Main, between second and third, are missing bargains, for on account of a contemplated change of location, he is selling off without reserve and without regard to profit. That is now the place to purchase your hats, caps, straw goods, walking sticks, and various other articles in the way of gentlemen's furnishing goods.

Railway Connections and Extensions.

We hear a great many speculations about the disastrous or beneficial effects to the Louisville jobbing trade of this and that railway connection or extension. We beg leave to submit the opinion that the Louisville jobbing trade is a far less sensitive plant than many of our well-meaning friends appear to apprehend. If it had been nurtured under hot-house influences to its present status, its friends might well dread the effects of the chilling winds of adversity; on the contrary, however, it burst through the icy soil of military despotism, and grew and thrived in spite of the most persistent and aggravating discouragement. And in our opinion it will continue to grow and thrive just as long as our merchants continue to offer the proper inducements to the trade. All attempts to force trade out of its proper and legitimate channels must in the end, like the Dutch Gap canal, prove lamentable failures. We have but to offer equal inducements in variety and quality of goods as well as prices and terms, to secure the immense trade of the Southwest, for all time to come. The glorious legacy is ours by right of position; ours from homogeneity of interests; ours by the almost unanimous assent of her people, who would rather pay us higher prices for inferior goods than cross the river, if we were base enough to speculate upon their preference for us. We have little to fear, we apprehend, from railroad extensions, so long as our own lines of communication are kept open—intelligent merchants do not long persist in "going farther to fare worse," even tho' facilities for travel be ever so inviting. And so long as our jobbers are able and willing to continue to duplicate Northern and Eastern invoices, in quality, variety and price, we have little to fear from competition.

Now is the Time to Buy Agricultural Machines.

In our advertising columns will be found the claims of a number of manufacturers and dealers for the patronage of the farmers, for the ensuing season, of their respective implements. Those intending to purchase should now lose no time in making up their minds on the subject, and have their machinery in readiness in time for the harvest, which will soon be upon us. Our farmers should, besides, lose no time in procuring all kinds of harvest tools, which are requisite in the coming work, thereby enabling them to strike at the most propitious moment—for this purpose, examine carefully our advertising columns which offers to satisfy your every want.

THE NEXT FAIR.—The 12th of September has been selected by the Louisville and Jefferson County Association as the date of the commencement of the next fair. It will continue four days, and the premium lists will be both liberal and extensive.

We have received from the Hon. James Guthrie, United States Senator from Kentucky, the report of the Secretary of the Treasury, on distilled spirits as a source of national revenue.

By a mishap which occurred in making up the third page of our paper, the reading matter was so arranged that it will be necessary to read the first two columns from right to left to connect the article signed "Senex."

RHETORIC ON STILTS.—A writer in the Crescent Monthly is making some improvements on Mr. Demming, the Congressional rhetorician. Speaking of Gen. Lee's surrender, he remarks:

"The supreme hour was now come, when, from across Fame's burning eclipse, where it had traced, in flaming sheen, its luminous path of glory, the proud Aldebran of southern hope, in all the splendors of its express Hyades brightness, should sink, to rest behind lurid war clouds, in the fateful western heaven, there to bring out, on death's dark canopy, the immortal lights of immortal deeds, and spirits great and glorious, shining forever down upon a cause in darkness like the glittering hosts upon a world in night."

This in a southern monthly magazine, published in New Orleans! The extract is taken from the leading article in that magazine. Such magazines are never supported, and in the course of a few months or years it must go into suspension. We are then gravely asked why is it that southern people will not support their own literature! The question itself suggests the answer. When men of good common sense coupled with proper attainments and enterprise, determine to erect a standard of literature in the South, their efforts will be seconded by the people.

THE NEXT AGRICULTURAL FAIR.—The Louisville and Jefferson county Association have decided upon Wednesday, the 12th day of September, as the time for holding the next fair. It will last four days. Premium lists will be prepared and distributed at an early day.

There were two cases of infanticide in the city during the past week, one a black child and the other a white one. No trace to the murderers in either case could be found.

THE OLDEN TIME.

THE LOUISVILLE COURIER A HALF CENTURY AGO.

A few days since we were placed in possession of several issues of the Western Courier, published in Louisville in 1812. We are indebted for a perusal of these papers to Mr. George Felker, of the hot coffee house, on Green street, whose father has a remarkable penchant for the collection and preservation of old time publications.

This Courier may be considered the ante-type, or prototype, or progenitor, or grand parent at least of the present mammoth daily, now issued in our city, by the energetic Halderman, with "News from all nations lumbering at its back."

In these faded and yellow sheets of a by-gone age, we find very much to amuse, interest and instruct. A perusal of their columns is like thrusting one's self backward in the past and communing with the gentry of the long ago.

Perhaps the advertisements are the most interesting features of the paper. Names constantly appear of the ancestors of many of our most respectable citizens, and these descendants of the founders of the Falls City will, we doubt not, be pleased to know how and what their forefathers were doing a half century ago.

J. Gwathney, J. A. Taraseon and Worden Pope, trustees, announce the completion of the Roman Catholic Chapel.

John Bustard was cashier of the Bank of Louisville.

James Taylor was High Sheriff, and Thomas Shipp deputy Sheriff of the county of Jefferson. Worden Pope was Clerk of the Jefferson circuit court.

William S. Vernon advertised 5,000 pounds green coffee, 2,000 pounds loaf sugar, and 2,000 gallons superior whiskey.

Thos. Crawford, jr., publisher of the Courier, had a circulating library of 150 volumes.

Sam'l Dickinson advertises his school. Pupils received at $20 per year.

George Eringer had built a horizontal saw mill on Beargrass creek, which sawed 1,350 feet of plank in twelve hours with four horses.

C. & T. Bullitt advertise for 5,000 bushels of good merchantable wheat, to be delivered at Shippingsport for which they propose paying four shillings per bushel.

The barge Amelia, J. A. Honore proprietor, had arrived from New Orleans laden with groceries.

"Passed the falls April 28th 1812, the schooner Economy, burthen 110 ton and drawing nine feet water. She came from the mouth of the Sciota river in two days, and was piloted over the falls by W. Bowman."

J. & G. Hikes were operating a wool carding factory on Beargrass seven miles from Louisville.

J. Wilson published the following miscellaneous advertisement:

"WANTED.—A lad of about 15 or 16 years of age, who can write and come well recommended, to keep my billiard table. I also want to hire a negro woman to wash and iron, and will give cash for a good milk cow with a young calf."

J. A. Honore proposes to open a "coffee room."

Worden Pope announces himself a candidate for elector for President and Vice President, stating that he will vote for James Madison, of Virginia, who he regarded as "a friend of the constitution."

Z. Taylor, afterwards the immortal Rough and Ready, and President of the United States, was in 1812, stationed in Louisville as Captain of 7th regiment of infantry. He advertises two deserters from his command, and states that one of them stole a white fur hat about half worn.

Charles M. Thruston had lost a gold watch, with a cotton chain, which he supposes he left on a log with one end lying in the river, just below the warehouse of Cuthbert Bullitt.

War with Great Britain was then on the tapis and the United States Government had called upon Kentucky for 5,500 troops. Gov. Chas. Scott issued a storming appeal to Kentuckians.

James Craig was clerk of the Shelby circuit court, and F. W. P. Grayson of Bullitt.

Whiskey was in those days a legal tender. The following advertisement appears:

FOUND.—Near Brunerstown, a promissory note in favor of James Sters, for one hundred and ninety-five gallons of whiskey."

Tipton Lewis, (a dancing master) advertises that he "will commence teaching the polite arts at Captain George Gray's, where the most fashionable dances will be taught, with a variety of appropriate steps."

Hon. Stephen Ormsby was in 1812 the member of Congress from the Louisville district.

The following directors of the Bank of Kentucky were chosen June, 1812: Wm. Croghan, John Gwathney, Richard Steele, Thomas Bullitt, Alex. Pope, David L. Ward, Wm. S. Vernon, J. D. Breckinridge.

The members of Abraham Lodge, No. 8, celebrated the anniversary of Saint John, the Baptist, June 24, 1812.

The light infantry company of Louisville, Capt. John Nelson, were announced to proceed on the 20th of June, 1812. Hite & Ormsby has just received from Philadelphia a large assortment of spring and summer goods.

Richard Taylor, (father of President Zachary Taylor) announces himself a candidate for Presidential elector, and states that he will vote for Jas. Madison. He desires the sheriffs to open a "pole" for him.

And here for the present we leave the interesting relic of the past.

[For the Gazette.]

Rev. Theodore Clapp.

The sunshine of Heaven beam'd bright on the waking,
And the song that thou heard'st was the Seraphim's song.

This eminent divine, great philanthropist and once magnificent intellect, has passed away, gone to receive his well merited reward, at the hand of the Divine Creator, in whose service for more than half a century he was a bright and shining light, a zealous and devoted laborer. Possessing eloquent talent in no ordinary degree, for many years he swayed an audience, perhaps the most enlightened that ever assembled within the walls of a Christian edifice. Once the pride and glory of the American pulpit. The homage paid to this illustrious man by his own countrymen was only equaled by European admiration. The startling eloquence that dropped from his tongue, fell like inspiration upon the ears of his spell-bound listeners. On British soil he was a welcome advocate of the Christian truths that he so brilliantly elucidated. In France, Germany, and various other parts of Europe, his presence was hailed with delight, and well might it have been so, for his claims upon humanity at large were just, and mercy claimed his heart as her own. His munificent benefactions alone would have won for him undying fame. His one thought was to relieve distress. He would have been possessed of an elegant fortune, had it not been given freely by his hands to alleviate the cares and sorrows of his fellow-beings. He gladdened the widow's heart, and brightened the tearful face of the orphan child. The captive, in his lonely cell, blessed with tears his benign and soothing presence, and the murderer on the gallows, was ushered into eternity with the blessed hopes of forgiveness, imparted to him by this faithful servant of the Lord. To those who were personally and intimately acquainted with Mr. Clapp, he was a choice spirit—kind, courteous, benevolent, and genial. Beloved, courted, admired, followed, by the elite of this country, and of Europe, he never refused to listen to the appeals of the humblest. During the years of his most splendid pulpit fame, he wrapped himself in the mantle of charity, and gave comfort to thousands. When the annual scourge swept over the Crescent City, his adopted home, fearless and untiring, he remained at his post, a constant attendant at the death bed or grave from daylight to sunset. After days of wearisome labor, often awakened at midnight, to attend and soothe the last moments of the dying, and many have passed happy through his kind persuasion to a better world. Long may New Orleans, yea, the world, cherish his memory, his talents, and exalted virtues. We are the amazing wreath to perpetuate in fadeless colors the resplendent deeds of this soldier of the Cross. On sculptured marble will be emblazoned his devotion to the holy cause that he espoused in the spring-time of life, that waxed so bright in the summers of his maturity, that still beamed in his autumnal decline, and that never forsook him in the wintry night of death.

Farwell beloved and long to be lamented friend! In the language of the poet, "Fare thee well, thou hast returned with the tidings of thy mission." Thou art gone to the grave, but thy many virtues will be enshrined forever in the hearts of all by whom thou wert loved and honored. Every word that thou uttered, will hover around our hearts like the halo around the heads of the dying saints. Thou hast passed to the bosom of thy Father and God to render an account of thy glorious career on earth, and exceedingly great is thy reward. The angels have welcomed thee home to shine through countless ages. Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord.

A LADY OF LOUISVILLE.

Pulpit Pronunciation.

Why is it that so many of our ex-crates, in the reading desks of our various churches, so far depart from good pronunciation, as to continually o-press us with the o-pression of the o-pressor, and almost upon every o-casion that may o-ur, seem to be po-ressed with a spirit of incorrecness, that certainly produces an e-ect, but unquestionably a very bad one. Several other words could be mentioned as being often made subject to this mutilation; but these are perhaps, the most frequently presented to the attention of the hearers. Now, most assuredly, if we are to continually look up to "The Senate, the Pulpit, and the Bar," as our standard of right and wrong in the matter of pronunciation, it behooves those who take up a position in either of these influences, to keep that standard pure, and not at least, to misguide the many who have to follow the lead of the few. Let aught of wrong in the system, of however long tenure, give place to the progression of intellect and knowledge; but let no partial stretch of over-refinement lead them into what must be considered as at once an affection and an error; for the evil will not be confined to themselves, but will gradually, but surely pass into common use, and thus, not only the standard of our own day become vitiated, but an unnecessary difficulty created for the next generation to overcome. The evil, such as it is, is decidedly a growing one; and to all who love the fullness and freedom of our beautiful and expressive language, it cannot be a matter of indifference that its force and vigor should be thus idly frittered away.

If sensuality be our only happiness, we ought to envy the brutes; for instinct is a surer, shorter, safer guide to such happiness than reason.—Colton.

LOUISVILLE

COTTON MARKET.

It is a generally admitted fact that Louisville is the largest, and to the planter, the most satisfactory Tobacco Market in the world. And believing it can be made as important and satisfactory market for Cotton as it is for Tobacco, by adopting the same system of selling at public sale by auction, allowing the owner or his agent the privilege of rejecting the sale when the price does not meet his views; and being informed that

MESSRS. PORTER, FAIRFAX & CO.

Intend inaugurating this system in the sale of Cotton, we the undersigned, merchants and others, do pledge ourselves to sustain the enterprise to the extent of our ability by furnishing to the above firm all Cotton which we control, or can influence in this market so long as they continue this system of selling.

This Press consists of but few parts, all simple and substantial.

One mule (or horse) and five hands can press from 50 to 60 bales, weighing 500 lbs each, in one day of 10 hours; the bales, when finished, being 24 inches square and 4 feet long, or can be made, if desired, 20 inches square and 4 feet long; thus avoiding the necessity of compressing them again for the ship, and saving at least one half the baling and rope, besides a great saving in freight and hauling.

The Press, complete, (frame of the best white oak and well painted), will be furnished at my Factory for $600, or delivered on board Boat, or at Railroad Depot, for $625.
When the purchaser prefers, a complete set of iron, with
